IBLIS

If you die, daughter, I will return your soul to the earth for eternity. You'll live ten billion lives and suffer a trillion miseries. You will catch every disease. You will experience every pain known to man and beast. You will live as I do, in the bodies of murders and the insane. You will live locked inside their bodies. And each of your screams will only cause them to kill more. You will beg me in your prayers to make it stop. But it won't.
